STUCKEY'S WIFE FORGIVES

Will Stand by Pastor Who Fled With Girl

IS BITTER IN HER REMARKS

About Miss Lorena Sutherland—The Prisoner Bursts Into Tears on Hearing the News from His Family.

Ottawa, Kan., Sept. 21.—Forgiving her pastor husband, but bitter in her remarks about the young girl for whose alleged enticement he was arrested at Waukegan, Ill., the wife of Rev. Wallace M. Stuckey, pastor and editor of Williamsburg, Kan., sent a message to him telling him that she with her four children would be in Ottawa yesterday to stand by him in his trial.

The pastor is in the county jail, having been brought back from Waukegan in company with Lorena Sutherland, who was a pupil in his Sunday school class. When told that his wife had forgiven him, he broke into tears. Then he denied having wronged the girl who fled with him.

Miss Sutherland, 16 years old and well developed for her years, is at the home of her father in Williamsburg. She also asserts that Rev. Mr. Stuckey befriended her in Chicago and Waukegan. On her return Sunday she was allowed to go to her home, while Stuckey was locked up to await trial.

FEDERAL RAILROAD CONTROL.

Lane Says It Would Increase Investment.

Washington, Sept. 21.—Interstate Commerce Commissioner Franklin K. Lane, who has returned from a trip to Europe, where he gave attention to railroad questions in England and other countries, declared yesterday that hundreds of millions of dollars in France, England and other countries stand ready for investment in American railroads if some assurance could be given prospective investors as to the nature of the securities. He said that if the government were to control the capitalization of the railroads there would be almost no limit to the amount of money that would be invested in American roads. The same is true to a large extent of corporations other than railroad companies, in his opinion.

"What the people over there want," said Mr. Lane, "is some sort of government assurance that the securities are all right. The opportunities for investment in enterprises there are limited. In England, France and elsewhere, they are anxious to make American investments. If I were an American railroad president I would start to work today for government control of capitalization and would not stop until such legislation had been passed. American railroads can get all the money they need to make their extensions and improvements if they will only submit to government control of capitalization." Mr. Lane looked into the English system of regulation. Parliament has among other things provided for uniform classification of freights and a maximum schedule of rates. He is convinced uniform classification is feasible for this country.

WARATAH BURNED AT SEA.

Steamer Reports Seeing Vessel Destroyed.

Manila, Sept. 21.—The British steamer Harlow, Captain Bruce, from Newport News June 14, for Port Natal and Manila, reports that on July 27, while 180 miles from Durban she passed a steamer. The vessel in question, whose name it was impossible to make out, was shortly afterwards destroyed by an explosion. It is supposed that this steamer was the missing British steamer Waratah, which, with three hundred persons on board, has not been heard from since July 26, on which date she sailed from Port Natal. A majority of her passengers were Colonials and the others Englishmen returning home from Sydney and Port Natal. The British government sent a cruiser to search for the missing steamer, but the 1,350 mile hunt was in vain.

GULF COAST STORM SWIFT.

Property Damaged and Telegraphic Communication Cut Off.

New Orleans, Sept. 21.—Much damage to property, interruption of railroad traffic and the shutting off of telegraphic communication, were the results of the tropical storm striking the Gulf coast Louisiana and Mississippi yesterday.

No lives were lost, as far as can be ascertained. Louisville & Nashville trains were held up at Chief Monticou, 30 miles east of New Orleans, by washouts.

The principal damage in New Orleans was the partial destruction of the big horticultural hall at Audubon park. Telegraph wires along the Mississippi Gulf coast are out of commission.

AMERICAN MISSIONARIES

Being Tried for Telling About the Congo

AND CONDITIONS THERE

"Calumnious Denunciation" Are the Charges Made Against Them—The Belgian Government Is the Real Prosecutor.

Leopoldville, Belgian Congo, Sept. 21.—After several postponements, the trial of the two American missionaries, Rev. William Morrison and Rev. W. H. Sheppard, on charges of libel, were begun here yesterday.

The above suit is brought by one of the Congo concession companies, which has a monopoly of rubber gathering in the Kasai region. It claims $20,000 damages from each of the men for "calumnious denunciation." The suit is considered practically as brought by the Belgian government against the missionaries.

Messrs. Morrison and Sheppard arrived at Leopoldville, Aug. 5, with witnesses who will testify in their behalf.

NEW GOLD FIELDS.

Rush Is Now on to Innoko in Alaska.

Semte, Sept. 21.—Confirmation of the reports received from Innoko county in Alaska concerning the stampede that is under way to the new gold fields on that stream and its tributary, the Idatash, is brought here by miners returning on the steamship Victoria from Nome.

"Every hole that has been put down has struck pay dirt," said Fred Dubois, who has returned after making a rich clean up on Yankee Creek. "A favorable feature of the new field is that there are no single big pans, but all the pans are running even and paying good. When we were coming down the Idatash and the Innoko I saw hundreds of men stampeding for the new diggings."

Price of Watches Goes Up.

Waltham, Mass., Sept. 21.—In conjunction with the other Eastern watch manufacturers, the Waltham Watch company today advanced prices for watches and cases. The advance is understood to average about seven per cent. Western manufacturers took similar action last week.

A Great Horse.

Jumbo, a horse owned by a Savin Rock shipbuilder, is said to be the largest horse in Connecticut and it would no doubt be safe to say the largest in New England. He is nearly seven feet high and weighs 1,700 pounds. He is a most powerful animal and has dragged with apparent ease a two ton load. With the children he is a great favorite. It costs a good deal to feed him, as he has the most incredible quantity of eight pecks of oats at each meal and makes away with over 200 pounds of hay every week. His shoes are of unusual size and weigh four pounds each.—Boston Budget.

A BUILDING FEAT.

House Completed, Furnished and Occupied in Twelve Hours.

In the Wide World Magazine Harold J. Shephard describes a most remarkable building feat which was recently accomplished in St. Louis—viz, the complete erection and occupation of a house in a single day. It was the bride's ardently expressed wish to have a home to go to that caused the builder to attempt it, and he succeeded. Twelve hours before the evening meal was served the plot of land where the house was to stand showed not the slightest sign of human activity. Ragweed and goldenrod greeted the sunshine, and the scene was absolutely innocent of a stick of timber, a piece of stone, brick or other material. But when the 7 o'clock whistles blew on the morning in question, however, there was a concerted movement of men and wagons toward the lot.

In the erection of the dwelling 15,000 nails were used, 11,000 feet of timber cut and fitted, 12,000 shingles put on the roof, 4,000 laths used to make the walls, 375 yards of plaster spread and several gallons of paint used.

Twenty-five carpenters were employed on the job, of whom eighteen worked ten hours and the remaining seven eleven hours each. Twelve lathers and twelve plasterers did the lathing and plastering in three hours. Two men built the chimney in four hours forty-five minutes. Four men put the roof on in three hours, while two men did the plumbing and gasfitting in five hours. One man did the electric wiring in one and a half hours, while four men did the necessary painting in five hours.

The builders had hardly cleared away before a large furniture van arrived, together with a caterer's cart. The furniture van contained the owner's goods, and willing hands quickly transferred them to their rightful places in the record built home. In just under an hour the newly married couple and their friends, who had meanwhile come upon the scene, sat down to a sumptuous dinner. Twelve hours previously, as already stated, not a brick or a stone was to be seen on the site of the dwelling.

Better Than a Help Wanted Ad.

Mrs. Leroy—"Anty, I'm just trying to compose a help-wanted ad. for the newspaper that will bring me a washwoman. They're awfully scarce and I'm so tired out doing my own washing I'm nearly half dead."

Anty Dudge—"Help wanted? Huh! The help you want is Fels-Naptha soap. Instead of writing that ad. you write a postal to your grocer to send you some Fels-Naptha. Then do your washing with it in cool or lukewarm water, without boiling and hard rubbing, and you'll need no other help. It won't make you tired, nor take half so long."

If you want some clothes washed in a hurry, Fels-Naptha is a friend in need.

You don't need to wait for the laundryman or the washerwoman.

You don't need fire, nor hot water, nor washboiler, nor washboard.

In summer or winter Fels-Naptha will take the dirt out of your clothes in cool or lukewarm water in the shortest time without hard work.

And do it more thoroughly than the most elaborate laundry outfit with any other kind of soap.

You'll find it immensely convenient in having a supply of Fels-Naptha always on hand.

It will solve many vexing washing and cleaning problems in easy fashion.

All that's necessary is to have cool or lukewarm water, and follow the simple directions on the red and green wrapper.

POWELL STILL REBELLIOUS.

He Is Now an Out-and-Out Insurance Agent.

Washington, Sept. 21.—Representative Fowler of New Jersey, former chairman of the House committee on banking and currency, who was dropped by Speaker Cannon, is in Washington today. Mr. Fowler, though saying little for publication on the subject of his late collision with Speaker Cannon, made it clear he was still breathing defiance against the speaker. He has not changed his recently expressed views as to the Cannon organization in the House. He is now an out-and-out insurance agent, like Gardner of Massachusetts or Murdoch of Kansas. He is thoroughly opposed to the rule of Speaker Cannon in the House and the domination of Senator Aldrich in the Senate. He is convinced a central bank bill backed by Senator Aldrich cannot pass Congress.

SEARCH FOR GIRL.

May Have Drowned Herself in Old Quarry Pit.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Search is still in progress for Miss Maudie Caldwell of Newburg, who disappeared last Friday from the home of her aunt at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. In the belief that she may have drowned herself in the old marble quarry pits a steam pump will be procured and the pits will be pumped out in an effort to find the body. Dynamite has been exploded in the water but without result. Men are also scouring the swamps and ravines about the quarry in the hope of finding some trace of the missing girl. Miss Caldwell's brother believes that she has committed suicide or has become mentally unbalanced and wandered away, and he has offered a reward for her recovery alive or dead.

WAITING TO SHOOT

By EDMOND B. LINCOLN.
(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)

Gerald Maxwell, being threatened with pulmonary trouble, decided to give up business, go west and live an outdoor life. Taking his family with him to Kansas, he bought a farm there and entered upon the work of raising crops. He succeeded in re-establishing his health, a family of children grew up about him, his wife was contented in his western home, and the Maxwells were considered the happiest people of that region. Moreover, they were greatly beloved for their kindness to their neighbors.

One day a neighbor owing a farm on the opposite side of the road from the Maxwells died, and his family moved away. A few months later the closed farmhouse was reopened, and an ill-favored man was seen moving about the place. He had bought the farm and, being a bachelor, had gone to live alone on it. His name was Stuntz. He came from Kentucky, was about forty years old, wore his hair and beard long, never apparently combing either the one or the other, and was in all respects a disagreeable looking person.

Mrs. Maxwell, realizing that the family comfort depended largely on their neighbors, was great disturbed at the advent of Stuntz. Her husband made light of her fears. And, indeed, for a time the neighbor gave them no trouble. As a matter of policy Mr. Maxwell went over and made his acquaintance, and Mrs. Maxwell invited him to supper. He accepted the invitation, but said very little during the meal. The only person present who seemed to arouse his attention was Caroline Maxwell, the oldest daughter, aged twenty.

Not long after this Stuntz joined Miss Maxwell on the road and walked with her. She treated him civilly, though she found it difficult to do so. After that whenever he saw her out of doors he would make some excuse to be with her. One day Mr. Maxwell was astonished at receiving a call from Stuntz for the purpose of asking for Caroline's hand. The father conceived his disgust as well as he was able, saying that any such match would be impossible. Caroline when she heard of the proposal refused to again speak to the wooer.

From this time forward Stuntz spent all his leisure time arranging annoyances for the Maxwell family. He contrived that his cattle should get within the Maxwell fences and trample down the crops; he shot Tommy Maxwell's pigeons; he appropriated the Maxwell fruit. These were only the simple methods he used to trouble his neighbors; his more complicated ones were too disagreeable to catalogue. The result of the whole was misery to the Maxwells. There was too much self restraint in the family to make any complaint to the farmers living near, but it was not long before the condition leaked out, and many were the mutterings against Stuntz.

One day Mr. Maxwell was obliged either to surrender his manliness or protest at the shooting by Stuntz of the household dog, beloved by all the Maxwell family. Stuntz went into his house to get his gun to kill Maxwell, whose wife, terrified, dragged him within doors and locked him in. That night Mrs. Maxwell begged her husband to move away from the home where they had been so happy and could still be happy were it not for their neighbor, and, since she was supported by all the children, he was obliged to consent. The next morning Stuntz was seen sitting on his porch with his gun in his hands, evidently watching for Mr. Maxwell's appearance. Mrs. Maxwell first saw him and before her husband was aware of Stuntz's position had locked her husband in his bedroom.

The weather was hot and murky, ragged clouds passing overhead. During the afternoon a dark mass of cloud appeared above the southern horizon. Mrs. Maxwell, looking out of a window, saw it. She also saw Stuntz sitting with his gun across the road not 200 yards away. Of the two she dreaded Stuntz the more, though she kept her eye on the cloud. Presently it assumed the shape of an immense balloon. She let her husband out of confinement, showed him the cloud, and the whole family went to the cellar.

Stuntz was not facing the balloon cloud and didn't see it. Furthermore, he, being from Kentucky, had had no experience with Kansas cyclones. On came the pillar of cloud, gyrating like a top and humming like a midget cat. Stuntz heard the sound, but did not know what it was. He was afraid to get up and go to the other side of his house for fear his neighbor might slip away and he would miss an opportunity of shooting him.

Then suddenly Stuntz, amid a mass of whirling timbers which a second before had been his house, went up into the air. Whirling like a teetotum, turning a thousand somersaults, he was carried with the rapidity of a cannon ball for a mile and a half, then dropped to the ground from an altitude of several hundred feet.

When the Maxwell family emerged from the cellar they saw neither Stuntz nor his house. His gun was lying with a broken stock in the road. The cyclone had cut a swath covering the Stuntz house and leaving their own unharmed.

It developed later that Stuntz was a man much to be feared in every way. He had been in numerous shooting scrapes in the mountains of Kentucky and was supposed to be slightly deranged. He was devoid of fear and, taken all together, was a very dangerous and irresponsible man.

The Most Ancient Man.

The average reader does not see much difference in age between human remains found in the beds of the pleistocene and the pliocene, but to the geologist the difference is very great, only he cannot express it in years or centuries. Until recently the oldest remains of man known dated back to the middle pleistocene. Among these are the celebrated relics from Neanderthal, Spy and other places. But in October, 1907, a lower human jaw was found in deposits attributed to the early pleistocene or even the late pliocene. This would give it a greater antiquity than any of the others and entitle it to be called the oldest remains of the human species. The teeth are well preserved. The most remarkable feature of the jaw is the absence of a chin. The canine teeth are not unduly prominent, and the dimensions of the teeth are within the limits of variation in living man.

Installation Plan Dressing.

"Clothes for the year furnished on the installment plan" is the novel offer about to be made, it is said, to the women customers of a smart London house. The plan of the shopkeeper is to agree with a client upon a sum which shall cover that client's expenditure for dress for the next twelve months. The customer binds herself to buy everything from that shop, and the shop undertakes to supply her with what she requires. The payments are to be made monthly in advance. This plan was evolved not out of a desire to save the women customers trouble, but because the firm had begun to despair of ever getting them to pay their bills.

The Price of Peace.

The announcement that France is going to spend three milliards of francs for new ships of war—that is to say, for peace—reminds us how prices have gone up since 1871. In that year France bought peace of Bismarck for one milliard. And a milliard, furthermore, was deemed in that day a fairly stiff figure—the thrifty French more than hinted that Bismarck had driven a sharp bargain, whereas on the occasion of the present purchase the nation is reported as quite in a glow of delight.—Puck.

Ask Her This Question

"Do you know of any woman who ever received any benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

If any woman who is suffering with any ailment peculiar to her sex will ask her neighbors this question, she will be surprised at the result. There is hardly a community in this country where women cannot be found who have been restored to health by this famous old remedy, made exclusively from a simple formula of roots and herbs.

During the past 30 years we have published thousands of letters from these grateful women who have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and never in all that time have we published a testimonial without the writer's special permission. Never have we knowingly published a testimonial that was not truthful and genuine. Here is one just received a few days ago. If anyone doubts that this is a true and honest statement of a woman's experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound write and ask her.

Houston, Texas.—"When I first began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was a total wreck. I had been sick for three years with female troubles, chronic dyspepsia, and a liver trouble. I had tried several doctor's medicines, but nothing did me any good.

"For three years I lived on medicines and thought I would never get well, when I read an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and was advised to try it.

"My husband got me one bottle of the Compound, and it did me so much good I continued its use. I am now a well woman and enjoy the best of health.

"I advise all women suffering from such troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. They won't regret it, for it will surely cure you."—Mrs. Bessie L. Hicks, 819 Cleveland St., Houston.

Any woman who is sick and suffering is foolish surely not to give such a medicine as this a trial. Why should it not do her as much good as it did Mrs. Hicks.
